Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method and system of changing the layout of a document by outputting the image data of the document on which a layout is changed so as to change the layout on a printer, a copier, or the like having output functions for the document image. 2. Description of Related Art With reference to FIGS. 6A-6C, a description will be made on a conventional art of changing a layout of a document. First, as shown in FIG. 6A, a user issues the command for printing a document 601 having three pages, for example, using a personal computer (PC) 602. As a result, the document 601 with three pages is stored in the computer 602, and the document 601 is displayed on a display unit 603 of the computer 602. Next, as shown in FIG. 6B, a user designates the order of pages of the document 601 using a pointing device, for example, a mouse 604, on a window 608 displayed on the display unit 603. In this case, the user can designate the order of pages of the document 601 by designating the respective corner of each page of the document 601 and then designating the next page, or by designating the portion of the page and then designating the next page. Next, the user selects a layout for the document 601 from a menu 609 displayed on the display unit 603, and then inputs a command for changing the layout to the PC 602. The layout designated by the user is stored as an image in a storage unit 607, and then the image data is converted into data of a printer at 600-1 of the subsequent page. The image data is then stored in an image memory 605 in a predetermined sequence. Thereafter, the image data is input to the printer 600-1, and thus the document 601 with three pages is printed on a paper 603-1. As a result, a printed document 601a having the layout designated by the user is output from the printer 600 1cb139a0ed
