You can download the app from the official App Store. 1. Applying Texture Create a new document in Photoshop. The background should be white, so set the background color to (R)GGBG (255, 255, 255). Add a texture to the document. You can do this by copying/pasting the texture into the document. Then click on the layer to open the properties bar. Here you can edit the texture's size, position, and even the color. If you want the texture to have any text in it, make sure "Enable Clipping Mask" is selected and you also have "Clipping Masks" enabled. 2. Creating a Light Effect Duplicate the layer with the texture on it two more times. Create the following layer styles for the second and third layers. Set the background color for the first two to be (R)000000 (0, 0, 0). The third layer style should have the following settings: Grain: None Pixel Density: UPPER 8 X LOWER 8 PIXEL Bloom: On Blur: 3 PIXELS Blur Style: Frosted Blur Amount: HIGH (75%) The layer styles should look similar to this: 3. Adding a Stroke You can create a stroke by using the "Stroke" option under the "Layers" menu. Create a rectangle layer and then click on the rectangle layer to open the properties bar. Click on the "stroke" tab. You can then set the color, size, and dash/gap of the stroke. You can also add the stroke to the texture layer(s). To do this, duplicate the texture layer(s) and then select "Stroke." Set the "Stroke" option to "Yes." 4. Editing a Text Layer Clicking on the text layer will open the "Text and Shapes" panel. You can select the font, size, and location of the text by dragging it in the canvas. You can also modify the font style (like bold or italic), color, and alignment. You can also type in your own text. 5. Adding a Drop Shadow 05a79cecff

Q: Is there any way to insert into database in Laravel without model? Is there any way to insert data into database table in Laravel without model? Cause I'm planning to make package for Laravel. I want to make packages to be able to insert data into database. A: You could add that to some function or whatever. $your_data = YourData($input) Which calls your function and puts all the data into a $your_data variable. Then just insert it in the database via your model (if you have one). $your_model->data = $your_data; $your_model->save(); Relating toddler's behavior to mother's age in attachment studies. We explored the effects of differences in mothers' age on their children's attachment at age 2, in an urban New York sample. When maternal age was conceptualized as an attachment marker (6 to 18 vs. 19 to 44 years) it was associated with children's attachment behaviors but not with mothers' attachment. When maternal age was considered in terms of experiential knowledge about the transition to adulthood (24 to 28 vs. 29 to 45 years), it was associated with mothers' total experience of the transition to adulthood and their conviction that they were not ready for this transition. The findings are discussed in terms of how the current literature (unlike the work in our previous studies) failed to differentiate between early and mid-life attachment.Lesions, aneurysms and other abnormalities of the aortic arch are some of the most common of peripheral arterial disease, and pose a significant risk of sudden and catastrophic clinical deterioration. Although open surgical repair with hypothermic circulatory arrest has been a major determinant of improved outcomes after operation, it remains controversial because it has numerous complications and prohibitive costs, and the procedure is still considered a last resort by most vascular surgeons. Dacron patch angioplasty of the ascending aorta has emerged as a technique with low morbidity and mortality, but its effectiveness for treatment of the aortic arch and ascending aorta has not been well studied in randomized controlled trials. In the current application for a R01, we would assess the safety, feasibility, and efficacy of angioplasty of the aortic arch as an alternative surgical treatment of these high-risk aortic lesions. We propose to randomize 146 patients in a single-blinded trial to

Effects of root submergence on leaf, stem, and root mineral uptake of reed (Phragmites australis) and knotgrass (Polygonum bistorta). Pot experiments were used to investigate the effect of dry soil on the uptake of different minerals by reed (Phragmites australis) and knotgrass (Polygonum bistorta). Soil moisture and pH were manipulated to simulate two drought levels. Both grasses reduced the uptake of potassium, Ca, and P by water-stressed plants. With water supply doubled, net uptake of all mineral nutrients by the grasses increased while water stress levels decreased. Root depth and water depth of the two grasses were determined using stimulated emission from the decay of changing excited state population of fluoride ions. The depth to which roots reach the saturation point of mineral uptake was greater for knotgrass than reed. The saturation depths of alkali ions, especially $K(+)$ ions, were greater with water-stressed reed than water-stressed knotgrass. In both grasses, the total pool of $K(+)$ ions and water depth of the roots decreased with water stress. Different responses of reed and knotgrass to water stress may be due to the difference in fine root biomass. The results indicate that reed is better adapted to drought stress because it possesses a higher tolerance to the impacts of drought on nutrient availability.Q: How to query different table in different database? I have two database: db1 and db2. I want to query data from both database. Each database have different database type. For example: db1 table is large and heavy table, but db2 table is small and light table. Data type of db1 table is int and long, but data type of db2 is varchar. How to query data from both of them? A: It is possible to query multiple databases at the same time using the IN and EXISTS operators. An IN clause lets you specify a variety of entries in one query. An EXISTS clause lets you specify a variety of entries by name in the same query. Here is an example of what you can do. SELECT * FROM (SELECT col1, col2 FROM db1.table1 EXCEPT SELECT col1, col2 FROM db2.table2 UNION ALL SELECT col1, col2 FROM db2
