What's new in PixPhys Soundtrack:

: Let it be EuroVision's cash cow Eurovision is sadly no exception to the rule "You're only as good as your last hit" and Ireland is no exception. Since the late 90s Gráinne Seoige managed to come up with at least two hits that went straight down the A-list of a TV station's music charts every year, The Island and the boyband Song For Europe. I should note at this point that we've had some big downfalls in Eurovision history over the years. The 2006 debacle in Kyiv was lost on us, while the most recent event in 2017 was nothing short of a waste of a TV slot and an embarrassing debacle of serious proportions. Things, just couldn't get any worse, but I was wrong. For an act that came up with two mega-hits that rightly had the charting power the host nation of a competition are entitled to, as well as come back from the doldrums such a horrific situation in Kyiv, Ireland really have not done that well. They've had the luck on the side. EU The song "Vox Populi" (Cheers, the people!) was written by Eurovision 1995 winner Loreen and is a pretty benign ballad number. "Lucky Boy" has Eurovision 2001 winner Patrick Kielty on backing vocals and is like their Eurovision rip off for "Song For Europe". The ballad "Another" was in existence in 2011 for the Eurovision in Düsseldorf, but missed out, while another hit with same title appeared in the 2012 RTE Eurovision semi-final. Remember Eurovision 2003 winner Seal's "Writing a Song for You"? Him and Jonté Harte are back with a duet that appears in the final as "One Love". The revival of "Plunder" in 2015 is bound to confuse and annoy many, having been almost completely forgotten since Eurovision 2013, it pulls out the energy needed to turn the spot on the world's biggest TV channel back on its head. While I'm here I'd be remiss if I didn't mention "We Are The Winners". A very different Ballad entry from 2002, it's baggy with a harder edge and is a much

Well, as you can probably guess by the title of the game, the game is a Bug Out! It's the time when the time comes to leave the protection of the house and head to another safe zone. You might also be wondering how this is an 80's game, and well it was actually inspired by the 80's, I had a bit of a shopping daze in the 80's myself, why didn't I think of this before? 80's/ 90's folks, this really feels like your era. Now I am not saying that we will have the time machine yet, but it sure feels like that era. This game was mainly inspired by some people on Reddit that are much better than me at doing design documents, and well they just laid down their thoughts for this game. I think that the general idea behind the game was that it would have a lot of retro and 80's references, and I don't think that you can go wrong with that. This game was also inspired by the ever popular bug themed games with the 80's, like Centipede, and it brought some of the original gameplay and graphics back, also all of the power-ups we have now were actually taking inspiration from some of the original games, and one of the power-ups is a Scope. If you had to give a self-assessment of the game, how would you rate it? 1/2!2/3!3/4!4/5!5/6! 6! 6! I guess it's all good to be honest, the score is okay. And well like I said the score is okay but it's actually 4.1/5.0, just don't pay too much attention to the low scores, I know that there are some bugs in the game. This game was definitely time consuming to make and we got pretty much everything right the first time, but it's really a lot of fun to make. So should you give it a try? Well I'm pretty sure that you will enjoy this game, so yes, I would recommend it. Want a 100% FREE Download? Click here:

While it does attempt to use fewer resources than some of the other Skyrim combat enhancement mod's, it is a fairly resource intensive addon (especially at launch) so as you begin to use it, your FPS should drop.
